SKY CRIES MARY TO RELEASE ALBUM "SECRETS OF A RED PLANET" on TRAIL RECORDS

"An explosion of sound and feeling, no hallucinogens required but strongly encouraged!" - A Sky Cries Mary fan

Legendary Seattle Psych rock band, Sky Cries Mary, is releasing their 11th studio album, Secrets Of A Red Planet, on Trail Records.

The band will also release a short film based on the single Trapeze Dancers, a collaboration with Portland artists COASTAL STATES and Eye Contact Maui.

Secrets of a Red Planet began as a 3 day improvisation recorded and engineered at Sound house (Seattle, Wa) by Jack Endino (Nirvana, Soundgarden, Skinyard).

Lead singer Roderick Wolgamott describes his lyrics as "personal and autobiographical, yet rooted in the mystical Persian tradition. Through vocal expression, we are consciously traveling Centuries in Minutes".

Founding member Ben Ireland wanted "to create something brave and gorgeous, so we took a lot of risks, taking care to avoid cliches. Each member brought a high level of musicianship to the sessions. A cosmic telepathy of sorts evolved our music into orchestral compositions."

The band, founded by Roderick Wolgamott and multi-instrumental songwriter, Ben Ireland blends Cabalistic poetry, mysticism, electronic synthesis, with ethereal vocals sung by Roderick and Debra Reese. Curt Eckman's brooding intentioned bass and meandering licks by Guitarists Kevin Whitworth and Jack Endino create set and setting for a psychedelic sonic journey.
