Sky Cries Mary are known for drawing from the spiritual and metaphysical in their lyrics. On Wandering in the Vastness, lead singer and lyricist, Roderick Wolgamott takes a more personal approach, sharing literal snapshots from life during the Pandemic; A snowy evening in New York spent waiting, witnessing a friend's relapse, a family's resolve to survive hunger in the streets, a shout-out to a friend in rock legend heaven. "Sometimes my lyrics emerge from weird dreams, imaginings, and sometimes they come from waking life!" recalls Wolgamott. Vocalist, Debra Reese personifies female animus and astral plane energy in his storytelling.

"I write from a lot of different instruments", muses founding member Ben Ireland, "The pandemic gave us a lot of time to focus and expand our musicianship. Members were definitely encouraged to take risks!"

Jack Endino, guitarist and acclaimed producer/engineer for Seattle legends Nirvana, TAD, Soundgarden, and SKIN YARD, sits at the helm of the control booth once again. Throwing back to his early tape-op days, he includes one of his own called "Jodo". Throughout, Endino masterfully reunites the disparate parts, creating a hypersonic journey for listeners.

End result: The most creative and versatile Sky Cries Mary album since This Timeless Turning!
